FROM THE WEST.

[From the Virginia Union.]

The Bulletin's Guaymas (Mexico) correspondent says that intriguing is going on to prevent the location of grants made by Juarez to the American Company of vacant land in Lower California, the Mexicans fearing that immigration will follow colonization.

The following dispatch was received here yesterday morning:

New York, January 28.

J. W. Raymond:—The steamer Santiago, from Greytown, arrived early yesterday, twenty-one days from San Francisco. There was no sickness. This is the shortest trip yet made. The sanitary condition of Nicaragua is excellent. The lake and river are full.

(Signed) W. H. Webb, Pres't of the Co.

A freight train on the San Jose Railroad was thrown off the track yesterday morning, near Donahoe's ranch, by coming in collision with three horses. The animals were killed, but none of the officers of the road were injured, nor was any serious injury done to the train or freight. The line was blocked for about two hours, but is now in running order again.

By the arrival of the Milton Badger, day before yesterday, we have Honolulu dates to January 24th. The principal item of news brought by this steamer is the suspension of the house of Walker, Allen & Co., on the 10th inst. The liabilities are placed at $600,000, and the nominal assets at $780,000.

Simon Hammersmith commenced suit yesterday in the Fifteenth District Court against A. J. Stevenson, to recover $15,000 damages.

A number of the personal and political friends of Hon. James W. Nye have tendered him a complimentary dinner, which will take place at the Lick House, this evening.

United States Commissioner Sullivan has decided that the robbery of the Spanish woman on board the Pacific, was committed in the Columbia River, and not on the high seas, and consequently discharged the defendants, Mrs. Wagner, Barney Dougherty, and Buckskin Bill, from custody.

It is stated that the suit of Mary Ann Palmer vs. W. H. Miller, to recover $30,000 damages for an alleged "breach of promise," has been compromised by the payment on the part of defendant, to the plaintiff, of $400 in gold coin.

Gold was 134¼ in New York on Saturday; sterling, 108½@109; legal tenders are quiet at 74 buying, and 74¼ selling. The demand for exchange and bullion for the steamer on Wednesday opens moderate. Leading bankers here quote coin drafts on the Atlantic cities at 2@2½ per cent.; currency do. 29@30c. premium on gold telegraphic transfers 2½@3 per cent.

[From the Virginia Enterprise.]

San Francisco, January 27.

Senator Nye, of Nevada, whose recent election to the United States Senate caused such general rejoicing among loyal men throughout the Pacific Coast—and, indeed, on the Atlantic as well—arrived from Sacramento by last evening's boat. He has been invited and has accepted the invitation to lecture on the state of the country at Union Hall, on Howard street, to-morrow evening, under the auspices of the California Hundred and Battalion, and in aid of their subscription of $1,000 toward the monument in honor of Californians who died while serving in the army or navy.

Just as the steamship Orizaba was leaving her wharf, on Saturday, a member of the Fourteenth United States Infantry, named Thomas Johnson, was arrested by the police on a charge of stealing. An effort was made by his comrades to prevent his being taken away by the officers, but General McDowell, who was present, immediately ordered his surrender, and he was marched of to the calaboose.

John Lounds, cook of the ship Shatemuc, was sentenced by Judge Hoffman of the United States District Court, on Saturday, to one year and six months' imprisonment in the State Penitentiary, at hard labor, and to pay a fine of one dollar. This is the man who stabbed the Captain of the above named vessel on her recent voyage from New York.

Mayor Coon, who had the misfortune to break his right leg in December, has so far recovered as to be able to walk about his residence on crutches.

The steamboat Chrysopolis reached her wharf in this city, on Saturday evening, only six hours and twenty minutes from Sacramento.

The steamer Continental arrived on Sunday afternoon from Mazatlan.

CALIFORNIA KNITTING MILL.—A woollen knitting mill was started a few days since in this city, on Turk street, and is now occupied in making half-hose of the kind called Shaker socks. Some specimens shown to us are of very good quality. The mill has a capacity to make one hundred dozen per day—about one-third the consumption of the Coast. We have hitherto paid more than a quarter of a million dollars annually for woollen socks, and this mill will keep part of that money at home. Yoklas, Wise & Co. are the agents of the Mill.—Alta, 23d ult.

FRED. D. VAN HORN, an old resident of Washoe City and well known to many Virginians, was found dead in his bed in Washoe on the morning of the 27th ult. He had the habit of taking chloroform to produce sleep. Unfortunately, Saturday night he inhaled too much of the drug, and was found the next morning dead, with a handkerchief which had been saturated still on his face. Mr. Van Horn was about 28 years of age.

THE Chinese at Pekin have been eleven months without rain or snow. This is, in China, a great public calamity, which is sought to be averted by feasting, prayer, and expiatory ceremonies. In the summer of 1864 the drought was so great that the Emperor himself made a vow to "rectify his conduct, and be more anxious for the welfare of his people."

A NOVEL PROJECT.—The steampship Great Eastern is fitting up as a World's Fair passenger ship, between Paris and New York, to carry 3,000 persons—fare, out and back, 1,000 francs—$187. Her first trip is to be made in April.

It is announced from Galveston that no less than 300 families of the Scotch working classes, has sailed from Liverpool, destined to that point. They will find Texas an excellent field for thrifty industry.

IN 1849 there were but 19,000,000 postage stamps used in France; in 1865 the number had increased to 414,000,000. This speaks volumes for the progress of France.

THE INDIANS.

[illegible] but unless all the signs fail [illegible] dry season, but unless all the signs which come thick and fast upon us just now are unusually deceptive, we are on the eve of a most gigantic Indian war on the Plains. The battle between civilization and barbarism, between the Anglo-Saxon race and the nomadic hordes which roam between the Mississippi Valley and the Rocky Mountains, must soon be finally fought—and won. It is, we think, about time that the old women of the country, and the sentimental followers of the romancist, should cease to dictate or influence the action of the Government. It may be all very well in theory to sing approvingly, "Lo! the poor Indian, whose untutored mind," and all that sort of thing; to say that he is "a man and brother," that he is "native and to the manor born," and his hunting grounds should be respected by the whites. But the practical working of sickly sentimentality on that subject has cost the nation already too dearly, without either improving the condition or advancing the interests of the red man.

The march of the white man, with his civilization and commerce, has been westward, and at each stride he has come in contact with the Indian. Either that march must be stayed, or the Indian must be got out of the way, peaceably if he will (and we know he won't); otherwise forcibly and exterminatingly—as he evidently must. The inefficiency and radical errors of our past Indian policy have been so transparent, and have been so often pointed out, that the wonder is that the old women and sentimental youngsters at Washington haven't been able to see it before. The light seems at last to be dawning upon them, and it is said that active and efficient measures are about being taken.

The savages are on the war-path. The massacre at Fort Phil. Kearny, and the gathering of hostile tribes north of Laramie, ought to suffice to settle that question. The butchery on the Smoky Hill route, chronicled in our dispatches yesterday, are significant on the South. The buffalo, (which always precede their more savage pursuers,) it has been said for some time, were crossing the emigrant roads, to the North. From every source, we hear that the tribes of the plain have confederated in hostility to the whites. When, where and exactly how they will commence operations, nobody knows till the blow is struck, but that the coming season will be a bloody one there is little doubt.

The system of bribing the Indians with presents of blankets, trinkets, bullets and unburned powder, has been tried, and, in the significant language of the day, is "played out." For a long time Indian affairs belonged to and were managed exclusively by the War Department. But when Jeff. Davis became Secretary of War, he urged Congress to relieve the War Department of Indian matters, and transfer them to the Interior Department. This was done, and a hungry horde of Indian Superintendents, Agents, Sub-Agents, etc., scattered throughout the country to manage the savages on the peace plan, the Doolittle system, the do-nothing policy. And so, ever since, the War Department with its officers, and the Indian Commissioner with his Subs, have been at loggerheads. Our Indian policy has wabbled from side to side—now peace, now war; here bullets, there blankets; now sabre cuts, then soothing salve—until the whole thing would have become a ludicrous farce but for the serious results. Congress at last seems to have determined to disband the whole legion of Indian Agents, and put the matter once more where it legitimately belongs, in the control of the War Department. Soldiers can manage Indians, when at peace, better than civilians, and if they don't behave, can give them a good thrashing.

The Indians' sole idea of Government is force. That they respect and obey. The Indian can no more be controlled by appealing to his supposed humane instincts than can any other wild animal. Thrash him well when he misbehaves. Let him understand clearly that there is the ability and the disposition to punish him for misdeeds, and then treat him with kindness, mingled with firmness, and the fellow is subjugated. But he cannot be caressed into pacific conduct by wagon loads of blankets and trinkets, nor subdued by long-winded harangues of political Agents concerning the "Great Father at Washington." With an instinct which is as correct as it is decided, the Indian has about as great contempt for the Agents, as the most of the latter are said to have for common honesty.

It may be laid down as an axiom that whatever stands in the way of civilization, our country's progress, commerce, and the advancement of the Anglo-Saxon race and its institutions, must get out of that way, or be crushed. Right or wrong, it is as inevitable as fate itself. The Red man happens to be just such an obstacle, and the result all can foresee, however much the old women may object or the sentimental whimper.

We sincerely trust that the campaign which is about being inaugurated on the Plains may be short, signal and decisive. If General Sherman is allowed to have full swing, we have no doubt he will give the red rascals a good drubbing and protect the great lines of overland travel from future insult.

DELIRIUM.—The women of New York believe Edwin Booth an actual Hamlet.

GOOD PRICE.—Bonner paid brother Beecher $10,000 for his novel.

[SPECIAL TO THE "DAILY UNION VEDETTE."]

Savannah, February 1.

The case of the State of Georgia vs. the proprietor of the Savannah Republican, indicted for [illegible] a Congressman elect, asserting that he was a disgrace to Postmasters of the United States, was decided by a verdict of guilty. The case excited great public interest [illegible] the publication was suspended by mutual consent of the parties. The verdict is considered adverse to the rights of all Northern or Union men in that vicinity.

Washington, February 2.

An official publication is given of an act to repeal the 13th section of the amnesty law, which became a law without the approval of the President.

The Secretary of War addressed a communication to Schenck, for information from the Military Committee, enclosing letters from Generals Grant and Sherman, strongly protesting against the authority of Chas. Bogy and others, giving to the Indians the right to purchase arms, and says all military officers and troops had better be withdrawn at once if arms are to be placed in the hands of the savages.

New York, February 3.

The steamer Cuyler, recently reported sold to the Columbian Government, was seized under orders of Collector Smythe, on the charge of having been fitted out as a privateer for the Chilian or Peruvian service. She had an armament of six guns aboard, and a large quantity of small arms and ammunition, and was manned by sixty ex-rebels. Representation by respectable parties, however, say that the privateer story is untrue, and that the vessel was actually sold to the Columbian Government under assurance that such sale would be perfectly legitimate.

Nashville, Tenn., February 2.

In the House the debate on the negro suffrage bill is closed, and a test vote taken, which resulted in yeas, 36; nays, 28. The friends of the measure are much elated.

A company of the 34th Regiment left for Overton county to-day to protect the citizens.

Anthony, the Federal soldier under sentence of death for killing a Nashville policeman, and two accomplices sentenced to 20 years imprisonment, have been pardoned by Governor Brownlow.

Frankfort, Ky., February 2.

The House referred to the Committee on Federal Relations a resolution that the President be requested to issue a proclamation for general amnesty. It is not now considered expedient by him that John C. Breckinridge be pardoned and allowed to return home.

The 4th of May is fixed for the election of Congressmen instead of the regular August election.

Lawrenceburg, Kansas, February 2.

A letter from a soldier at Fort Phil. Kearny says the Indians are still hostile and very threatening in that vicinity, and that it was with great difficulty that the bodies of the victims of the late massacre could be buried, owing to the presence in the immediate neighborhood of bands of savages.

Ex-Governor Carney, the defeated candidate for the United States Senate, at a recent banquet given by his friends, announced his retirement from politics. He has always been a Radical, and in advance of the public sentiment of the State, and charges he has been calumniated and most severely misrepresented.

New York, February 3.

Numerous daring robberies have lately taken place in the 11th Ward, the perpetrators of which are still at large. Eight houses were plundered the same night.

A. Neill and Wm. Neill, just from California, were yesterday induced by sharpers to exchange $5,000 in gold for a bogus check for $68,150.

A Herald special says a council of general officers of the army has been called by Gen. Grant, in Washington, to confer upon matters concerning the army, particularly in reference to maintaining garrisons in the Southern States.

The Fenians have determined to retain the arms they offered for sale, as they expect something to turn up soon; a war between France and England perhaps on the Samarinde case.

Washington, February 2.

The Secretary of War to-day communicated to the Senate telegrams and other official communications relative to the massacre of troops, by Indians, on the 21st of December, near Fort Phil Kearny. The report of General Cooke shows three officers, Lieut. Colonel Fetterman, Captain Brown and Lieutenant Greenwood, and ninety men killed. Lieut. General Sherman, in forwarding a partial report of the commanding General, says he can make no recommendation for a court martial until he receives the sub-report of Colonel Carrington and General Wessel.

On the 28th of January General Sherman forwarded to General Grant an extract from a private letter received at his office from a sergeant at the fort, describing the horrors of the massacre. It represents that no one escaped, but that all were butchered and scalped and their bodies chopped with knives and tomahawks, and stripped of every article of dress, and shot through and through with arrows. The writer complains of the conduct of the Indian Commissioners, and says they are furnishing the Indians with guns and ammunition to hunt with, and the Indians are using them to murder white men.

An official report estimates the number of Indians who attacked the massacred party at 3,000. There are detachments of six companies, with five officers, at the post, and their number is deemed too few and the weather too intensely cold to admit of aggressive operations at present.

New York, February 3.

A Mexican correspondent of the 17th states that forced loans were the result of the late deliberations of the Imperialists at La Teja, and the American residents are to be among the contributors to support the Maximilian government. Twenty-five members of the Junta voted for the continuance of Maximilian on the Throne, but it was the popular impression that the Council was resolved to pronounce Ortega leader of the national will.

The exodus of Mexicans and French is increasing. The Archbishop of Mexico is getting ready to take his departure. Two and a half millions of dollars have been shipped from Vera Cruz in advance of the French withdrawal from the Empire.

A letter from Belsee, Honduras, January 8th, states that the colonists are in a wild state of excitement in consequence of Indian raids on mahogany cutters and planters. A detachment of British troops, which were sent against the enemy in December, were met by the Indians and defeated after a short battle. The retreat of the British troops is described as a very disorderly one.

New York, February 3.

Havana advices of the 30th report but few cases of yellow fever in the harbor. The small-pox has apparently run its course in Matamoras, though over 500 cases were there still.

Advices from St. Thomas state that the cholera was rapidly decreasing [illegible]

The Dominican Republic is progressing finely under President Cabral.

At Demarara the yellow fever is raging; up to January 7th 160 cases were received in the hospital, of which 30 [illegible]

Washington, February 3.

Letters were received from Major Douglas, commanding Fort Dodge, Jan. 19th, in relation the issue of a large number of arms with ammunition, to Kiowas and [illegible] Indians, and expressing his apprehension of hostilities in consequence. He says the anxiety of Indians at the present time to obtain arms and ammunition is as great a temptation that to secure a revolver an Indian will give ten or twenty times its value, and load them at the same rate, and as the balls are small, large quantities can be transported at comparatively [illegible] rate. This anxiety cannot be caused by a lack of game, because they have plenty at most points, but everything tends to prove that the Indians are laying in large supplies preparatory for an outbreak. When that outbreak occurs we will see too late that we have provided our enemies with means for our own destruction.

General Grant on the 1st inst. enclosed to the Secretary of War a letter from General Sherman. Grant says the letter shows the urgent necessity for the immediate transfer of the Indian Bureau to the War Department, and the abolition of Indian Agents and licensed traders. He says: If the present practice is to be continued, I do not see any course left open to us but to withdraw our troops to the settlements and call upon Congress to provide means and troops to carry on formidable hostilities against the Indians, until the Indians or whites of the great plains and between the settlements on the Missouri and Pacific slopes are exterminated. The course of General Sherman in disregarding the permit of Mr. Bogy and others, is justified. I will instruct him to enforce his order until countermanded by the President or yourself. I would respectfully ask that this matter be placed before the President, and his disapproval of the licensing of arms to Indians asked. If all the tribes with which we have treaties, and pay annuities, can procure such articles without stint or limit, it will not be long before they will avail themselves of it to equip perfectly for war. They will get arms either by making treaties themselves or through tribes which have such treaties.

General Sherman, in a letter dated January 1st, addressed to General Hancock, says: We military are held responsible for the peace of the frontiers, and it is an absurdity to attempt it if Indian agents and traders can legalize and encourage so dangerous a traffic. I authorize you to stop the practice of Indian agents, who may without limit supply Indians with arms. I would not send our troops and trains to them at all, but would withdraw the soldiers, who have already a herculean task on their hands.

New York, February 4.

The World's special says the highly important consultation which the President and Cabinet have been holding with leading Southerners on the new plan of reconstruction, ended last night in an agreement that a series of resolutions, drawn up at the conference in favor of suffrage, based on reading, writing, and a property qualification of two hundred dollars, should be submitted for adoption to the Southern Legislatures, to pave the way for the submission of the question by the President in his message to the 40th Congress. These resolutions were sent to the Governors of several Southern States to-day, accompanied by advisory letters, stating that they meet the President's approval. The question of amnesty does not appear to have been an essential feature of the proposed plan. The Governor of North Carolina was telegraphed to-night to keep the Legislature in session to consider these propositions. Similar measures were sent to the Executives of Alabama, Georgia, and Mississippi. Governor Orr, of South Carolina, left to-night, to submit the plan to the Legislature of his own State.

General Items.

From the Alta California of the 25th ult., we clip the following:

The exhibition of Nast's great picture of "Sherman's March Through Georgia" has been temporarily suspended on account of an accident, which came near destroying the picture itself. A large demijohn, filled with rum, being broken in the Russ House billiard room, on the second floor of the building, the irrepressible fluid went hissing like a snake through floor and ceiling, and, running down into the store of Snow & Roos below, ran over the rich gilt frame of the picture, badly damaging it and saturating the carpet in such a manner as to make a short stay in the room equivalent to swallowing thirty or forty of Squarza's rum punches "hot." Fortunately the picture itself was not touched by the fluid. The damage will be speedily repaired.

Among the passengers by the steamship Constitution was C. H. Hopkins, Esq., the newly appointed Internal Revenue Inspector, who will assume the duties of the office immediately.

Americans and Liberal Mexicans alike will be interested in hearing that Dr. Carman, the American Consul at Mazatlan, has been removed. His successor, Isaac Sisson, Esq., of New York, arrived here by the Constitution, on Wednesday, and will proceed to Mazatlan by the Continental on her next trip.

The mortal remains of the late William Giles, one of the founders of the Irish-American Benevolent Society, were yesterday followed to the grave by the members of the Society, and a large concourse of sorrowing friends. The McMahon Guards, of which deceased was a member, turned out in full uniform, preceded by a military band, and acted as escort of honor to the remains.

Manager Maguire of the Opera House, left San Francisco for New York on the 30th ult.

ROYALTY BELOW PAR.—Who is there that lives upon the Pacific slope and rests in ignorance of the existence of the notorious Emperor Norton, an old resident of San Francisco.—"We knew him, Horatio; a fellow of"—well no matter, hear what the Examiner says of him:

Emperor Norton, who, for several years past has enjoyed the freedom of the city, and whose harmless eccentricities have only afforded amusement, where they did not arouse commisseration, was unnecessarily arrested and taken to the station-house, prior to undergoing an examination by the Commissioners of Lunacy. As soon as Chief Crowley heard of the Emperor's incarceration he very properly ordered his release. What particular wot of His Imperial Highness, indicating insanity, is alleged as a justification for his arrest, we have not learned; and what good such treatment of the harmless old fellow is to effect, we can't see.

THE SUPREME COURT DECISION.—The Supreme Court, by a majority of one, annulled as unconstitutional so much of the present Constitution of Missouri as precludes those who participated in or sympathized with the late Rebellion from officiating as ministers of religion, as teachers in schools, or as legal advocates in Courts. The opinions were pronounced by Justice Stephen J. Field, of California, with the concurrence of Justices David Davis of Indiana, Nathan Clifford of Maine, Samuel Nelson of New York, and Robert C. Grier of Pennsylvania. (The two first named were nominated by President Lincoln; the other three by his Democratic predecessors.) Justice Samuel F. Miller of Iowa read a dissenting opinion, which was concurred in by Chief Justice Chase of the District of Columbia, and Justices Noah H. Swayne of Ohio, and James M. Wayne of Georgia. (The last named was appointed by General Jackson; the other three by Mr. Lincoln.)

The grounds upon which this decision is made may be briefly stated. It is argued that the Test oath is directed against acts not defined in any code as criminal; for instance, the mere expression of sympathy with rebellion; that such acts had no possible relation to the lawful pursuits of the persons committing them; that the oath contravenes the clause of the Constitution forbidding any State to pass a bill of attainder or ex post facto law; that the oath is in effect both of these, because, by an evasion of the Constitution, it imposes the penalties of a bill of attainder, and an ex post facto law, and that the Constitution deals with things, not names; that the oath is ex post facto because some of the acts for which it imposes the punishment of deprivation from office, etc., were not known as offences when the acts were committed; that it subverts the presumption of innocence, and perverts the rules of evidence, presuming the party to be guilty, without trial; that it imposes penalties without the form of judicial proceedings; that if the oath is legal the Constitution may be evaded at pleasure, and individuals deprived of their civil rights.

The opinion of the Court upon the Constitutionality of the Test oath imposed by Congress upon attorneys and counselors is based on similar grounds, it holding additionally that attorneys are not officers of the United States, and that the Court is not the registrar of the edicts of any other power, i. e. Congress, and that Congress cannot impose qualifications as a means of punishment. It further holds that in the case considered the petitioners had received full pardons from the President for taking part in the Rebellion, and that Congress cannot limit the effect of a pardon which Constitutionally restores to full citizenship.

The dissenting opinion of Justice Miller holds that practice in the Courts is a privilege which Congress may limit, and not an exclusive right; that attorneys are subject to legislation, equally as judges; that Congress has the power to prescribe their qualifications, and that the oath imposed is not an unjust discrimination; that the oath justly makes loyalty in the past, and the pledge of it in the future, a qualification. It denies that the Test oaths are in substance bills of attainder or ex post facto, and argues that they simply require the proof of loyalty as a condition of practice, and not as a punishment for past offences. It holds that the President's power to pardon does not dispense with the laws; that "he may save a criminal from the gallows, but a lawyer cannot by him be readmitted to the bar." We place the substance of the two opinions before our readers, with the belief that if that of Judge Miller be not the law, we have the monstrous anomaly of a Constitution which gives treason the legal power to evade the consequences of treason, and prevents Congress or the States from making loyalty a qualification of office.

Still we do not regret these decisions, the more especially as they will be hailed with rapture by those who are in a state of chronic nervousness from apprehension that the States will be absorbed or crushed out by "consolidation." Here is a "sovereign State" overruled by a bare majority of the Supreme Court, and forbidden to decree that traitors to her and to the Union shall not teach her children, dispense religious instruction to her people, nor practice in her courts. We do not object to this; and you, Messrs. State Rights men! will please make a note that your oracles rejoice over it!—New York Tribune, January 15th.

STEPHEN C. FOSTER, THE COMPOSER.—A correspondent of the New York Musical Gazette gives a long and rather sad account of Stephen C. Foster, the author of "Old Dog Tray," "Old Folks at Home," "Hard Times," and scores of other well known songs, concluding with the following paragraph:

"In writing 'The Old Folks at Home,' Foster hoped, and even expected, as he himself told me, to rival 'Home, Sweet Home,' the air of which he thought contrary to all the rules of pure melody. He could never account for its popularity, and the enthusiasm and emotion with which it was received on every occasion. Perhaps had he not made his song local, by the mention of the Swanee River, it might have had a less ephemerial existence, and have equalled the song it was intended to eclipse; for it is a simple, touching and beautiful composition. But few have dared to follow where Foster failed, and 'Home, Sweet Home' still stands secure, the home-song of the world. In looking over the titles of his pieces, it is curious and pleasant to notice how often the name of Jenny occurs. As many as ten of them are woven about the loved name—the name of his wife. She was the daughter of the late Dr. McDowell, of Pittsburg—'Little Jenny Dow,' as he calls her in one of his songs. He not only sang his wife's praises, but always spoke of her in the fondest terms; yet why they thus lived separately he never mentioned, avoiding the subject whenever it was approached. During the years he spent in New York, until his death, he was employed as telegraph operator at Greensburg, and she is, in all probability, holding the position at the present time. He often used to say, in his tender moments, that she it was who, then a bright-eyed, merry little girl, first inspired his soul with song, and made him long to attune it to the music of her voice. 'Jenny's Coming o'er the Green,' recalling the happy time when he waited for her coming, seemed to be his favorite above all his compositions, and, when asked to sing, if he yielded at all, which was but rarely, he would almost invariably choose that. He used sometimes to come to my room, and sing in plaintive tones, to his simple chord accompaniments, his own sweet songs. His voice was of small compass and but little power—ruined by dissipation—yet he sang so tenderly and so earnestly that the effect was always pleasing."

A TYPO BURNED OUT.—At 7 o'clock this evening the house of Mr. E. K. Vallentine, a printer of this city, was discovered to be on fire, and in a few minutes was reduced to ashes. The loss of the house and furniture is estimated at $4,000, and was insured in the Farmers' and Merchants' Quincy, Ill., for some $1,100.

It is moved among the people that an entertainment be gotten up among the Typos of Omaha for his benefit.

We are satisfied that this will be a success; as our Omaha typos are men of excellent talent.—Omaha Herald, 26th ult.

Daily Union Vedette

Local and Miscellaneous.

ADVERTISERS.—The VEDETTE is the largest newspaper of Utah. Its extensive circulation in the mining camp and city of Montana and Idaho, (as it gives the telegraphic despatches a whole week ahead of the Pacific papers,) makes it the most advantageous medium for advertising in these four Territories.

ELECTION.—Everybody knows that an election came off yesterday, or at least that the polls were opened and closed, and that a number of people voted for somebody. We have witnessed many an election, have seen the course pursued by the Nullifiers of the South when paupers were driven in carriages to the polls, and the grave-stones of churchyards were resorted to for names to be used in voting, and know that the pine boards of Canfield furnished many a name to suit the voter list; we have visited the polls in the Fifth Ward in New York, where the purlieus of "Five Points" were brought into requisition, as fighters to deter respectable citizens in the free exercise of a just privilege; we have been a constant spectator of all the elections in San Francisco from 1849 to 1861, and the grave charge of stuffing ballot-boxes always been made by the defeated party; we have seen all these, attended as such practices will ever be, by riotous proceeding, Lynchardism, and a violation of all law; but we never yet witnessed an election where the requirements of law, all the observance of decorum, all adherance to rule and usage were openly and flagrantly violated as was done yesterday. There was no pretention of fraud, nor was there any evidence of a disposition to do wrong, but by an utter neglect to observe the usual safeguards against illegal voting, rendered the election yesterday a mere farce. Hundreds of men voted without knowing for whom, never seeing their ticket, not being asked their age, whether they were citizens, how long they had lived in the country, or any of these necessary questions as to their right to vote. While we are willing to admit that the day passed quietly off without a fight or anything that approximated to such a result, as such, was commendable on the part of the good and law-abiding citizens of the community, yet to one who is familiar with the usual safeguards ever thrown around the ballot-box in every other part of our country, it was indeed a strange sight. The only conclusion we can arrive at as a reason for such a state of things is, that somebody pulled the string and every puppet bows to its master. We visited several of the polls and disorder was everywhere apparent. We believe in some instances, an ignorance of the law, and to that we must attribute the enormity of its observance. We hope that the next election matters and things will be definitely settled, and that a candidate may be assured that his rights will be respected, and that the spirit of a Republican government may be properly carried out by those whose duty it is to see it done.

PERIODICALS AND MAGAZINES.—We acknowledge the receipt of another invoice of the valuable and popular periodicals, magazines and newspapers of the day from Major Low of San Francisco. The Harper's of December 22d and 29th, are uninteresting. The fine wood cuts of Philadelphia and Baltimore Railroad across the Susquehanna, the yachts in the recent race across the Atlantic, Christmas views of Santa Claus visits, endless variety of other scenes, make of the most popular papers now issued. Leslie's issue, of January 5th, follows suit with a splendid representation of Goddess of Liberty, whose one hand is laid to the bust of Monroe, as the emblem of the doctrine of America, while wards of the figure of the demon of government of empire on our soil, which is nobly designed and finely executed, the motto of Washington, "Beware of intrigue," is in good keeping with the rest. Leslie's Chimney Corner, the Fellow, Literary Album, New York and Godey's Lady Book for February—a beautifully executed display of the forms, all form one of the most interesting budgets we have received for a long time. The Major will please accept our thanks.

DIFFER.—If doctors have the right why not editors? The Enterprise for the last few days contain articles in relation to the action of the Nevada Legislature on the subject of the public printing, decidedly acrimonious in their nature. We have no trouble of that kind in Utah. We never apply, knowing we have nothing to show. The Legislature of Utah transacts things more amicably. No outsider being solicited with the pain of disappointment, as he never would be fool enough to entertain an expectation.

BEVERAGE.—The ale manufactured by Joseph Dudley at the Philadelphia Brewery in Parley's Canyon, is certainly a healthy and pleasant beverage. Mr. Dudley has been established here but a short time, but his ale is getting so popular that he will shortly keep a supply equal to the demand. He supplies some of the principal saloons in this city, as well as a number of ranches. Just try it all you who love to drink ale, and the sample he sent us holds out to please no better.

SIEGEL, COOKE'S CONCERT.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that Professor has obtained a feature to the Concert which will be given on to-morrow night at the Fourth Ward Assembly Room, by Mr. Siegel, the celebrated violinist, volunteering his services for the occasion. Mrs. Cooke and her pupils are unknown to us, but having been favorably spoken off, and safely predict that will be worth a dollar to hear Mr. Siegel alone.

DEPARTURE.—Mr. Frederick Auerbach, of the firm of F. Auerbach & Co., of this city, left on departure day before yesterday for the East, for the purpose of purchasing goods. He will be absent three or four months. We wish him a pleasant journey and safe return to his numerous friends.

WEATHER.—Yesterday was indeed a stormy day, and snow and wind were furnished in great abundance by that incorrigible old man of the elements. Good Mr. Clerk, we think cold weather to freeze the ground hard, and give us any more snow.

SEAT REMOVED.—A dispatch to the Alta from the Legislature of Nevada has removed the county seat of Nye county to Ione, by a vote of 23 to 9.

FOR SALE.—Small house to let on Emigration street. See advertisement. [ja14-tf

STREET OPERATOR.—A street operator gave his wife a diamond set worth $63,000.

LAND TRANSACTIONS.—The Land Office Department has recently laid down rules, based on the law of Congress, [illegible] Utah Territory, which will not interfere with Brigham Young's absorption policy:

1st. That the Government has the right of primary disposal of the soil of said Territory.

2d. [illegible] Office [illegible] sale or [illegible] disposal of any of the lands has been made, nor can they be disposed of until after such an office shall be opened in pursuance of law.

3d. That the public surveys, as far as they have been made, have been accepted, and will be used and govern in the disposal of the lands in the surveyed townships.

4th. That the restriction of the town sites to 640 acres was removed by the Act of the 3d of March, 1865, in regard to the subsisting cases, by declaring that any city or town existing on the 3d of March, 1865, shall not be debarred entry because of such excess, or of variance from the size of the town claim or town lots as limited by the Act of July 1st, 1834.

5th. That in pre-emption cases, actual inhabitancy must be shown. A settler driven off the land and debarred, by threats and fears of bodily harm, from consummating his right to pre-emption, will not, the facts being duly proved, forfeit said right, but may thereafter, upon making proof of settlement, inhabitancy and improvement, at the District Land Office and complying with the other provisions of the law, be permitted to enter the land.

ELOQUENT EXTRACT.—The following eloquent remarks on the convulsive changes of the Constitution, are from the National Intelligencer:

The highest progress of society is made not by convulsive starts, but by gradual and steady growth. Revolutionary changes may be rendered necessary by the stubbornness and selfishness of class interests, but they are abnormal, and mar the symmetrical development of the living organism, which should be judiciously bent, and not suddenly wrenched, in the direction in which lie its greatest usefulness and glory. This nation of ours is no mechanical structure which can be upheaved from its foundations one day, to be rebuilt the next, according to the dreams of idealists and the speculations of agitators. It is a vital organization planted on an inhospitable shore, strengthened by adverse winds, toughened and expanded by the trials of our fathers, fertilized by their blood, shaped by their wisdom, and beautified by their skill. Admit that it embodies certain faults; these are not to be remedied by lopping off its roots, by riving open its trunk, by checking the flow of sap which gives life and beauty to its remotest branches. The Constitution is the frame work of our national life; the mutual trust and mutual appreciation of the people its life-blood. Without the first, this glorious organization would tumble into premature corruption and decay; without the last, it would prove but a shattered ruin.

FLURRIED.—"Does the court understand you to say, Mr. Jones, that you saw the editor of the Augur of Freedom intoxicated?" "Not at all, sir. I merely said that I had seen him frequently so flurried in his mind that he would undertake to cut out copy with the snuffers, that's all."

LADIES who have a disposition to punish their husbands should recollect that a little warm sunshine will melt an icicle much sooner than a regular northeaster.

THIN DRESS.—A correspondent of the New York Herald says that the full dress of a native lady of Colombo is a hair pin and a garter.

In a recent speech in Congress, Hon. [illegible] of Ohio, used the [illegible] illustration we have seen employed to exhibit clearly and forcibly the existing state of the question relating to the [illegible] in all ingenious allegory or fable, as follows:

"A traveler was one day accosted by a snake from under a rock, and asked to help it out. The traveler at first was afraid of the consequences, and told the snake that he was afraid he would bite him if he got out. The snake promised that he had been under the rock a long time; that he regretted his natural propensities, and was resolved hereafter to [illegible] them. After much parleying the traveler compassionately removed the rock, and he and the snake traveled along some distance agreeably together. Presently the snake said he felt like biting somebody; that he might not bite the traveler, but his venomous propensities had returned with such strength that he could no longer control himself. He contended that the promise that he had made was made under duress, that God had made him for a snake; that he had no other functions to perform than those of a snake. The traveler entreated him to control himself, and reminded him of his original promise. The matter was finally compromised by agreeing to leave the question in dispute between them to the first animals they should meet—the first was the wolf. He decided that the snake was restored to his original rights, and that his promise made while under duress was not binding. The next animal met was the lamb, who decided in favor of the traveler, and was in favor of peace among all animals. The third animal met was the fox. Before he could give his opinion he wanted to survey the original premises. Upon reaching them, he asked the snake to lay down in exactly the position he was in when the traveler found him. He then asked the traveler to place the rock as it originally was. This being done, he said: 'This case requires great deliberation; and we must take time to consider it.' And so he and the traveler passed on."

AN AMUSING CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY.—Among the cabin passengers who arrived by the steamer America was a Miss P. Mr. R., the well known photographer of Montgomery street, having received a letter that his wife's sister, whom Miss P. was coming out by the steamer, went down to the wharf yesterday morning when the passengers landed, for the purpose of welcoming the young lady, whom, he had not seen for nearly eighteen years, he was afraid he should not recognize. So, to prevent mistakes, he secured the assistance of one of the gentleman passengers whom he well acquainted with, and who knew the young lady, to introduce him. They met, and a scene ensued which baffles description. Mr. R., who is remarkable for his bashfulness, was thunderstruck to find himself surrounded by a gaping crowd, fondly embraced in the arms of a good looking vigorous young Western lady, who literally smothered his blushing face with kisses, given with such a vim that they resounded with a distinctness so as to be heard for half a block. The loving couple were of course the observed of all observers. When the young lady got through kissing, she laid her beautiful head on the bosom of Mr. R., and looking up in his face, said, in the sweetest accents, "Oh, my dear Bradshaw, how grateful I am to you for coming to rescue me from that ship." Mr. R. stammered out that he thought there must be some mistake, as his name was not Bradshaw. An explanation ensued, and a clear case of mistaken identity was at once established. The young lady, as may be well imagined, felt considerably abashed, and when she had left, the jokes and laughter of the crowd, who had been interested witnesses of the scene, compelled Mr. R. to beat a hasty retreat, and he has not shown himself since.—S. And nothing conceals,
Regarding the wear of his clothes,
But speaks with the truth,
To man and to youth,
Which each of his customers knows.
Hence, friends, one and all,
Go to Anker's Hall,
Walk boldly—don't cowardly creep,
For there you'll find,
All obliging and kind,
With Clothing tremendously cheap.

The citizens of Utah, Idaho and Montana are at all times cordially invited to call at ANCHOR'S POPULAR CLOTHING HOUSE, when in Denver, and examine his most Elegant and Tasteful Stock of Goods, which will be sold at Prices Guaranteed Lower than the Lowest.
